Seeking a solution in Desert Hot Springs

In January we purchased our beautiful home here in Desert Hot Springs and immediately subscribed to The Desert Sun to learn about our new community.

To our disappointment all we have learned about Desert Hot Springs is that our City Council is so obsessed with infighting, finger-pointing and bullying each other that it looks like the potential of this city will not be realized in our lifetime.

City Manager Jerry Hanson was embraced by city officials when he was appointed only a few months ago; after he supposedly informed then city manager Sam Scott of the conflict involving his son. Apparently Scott thought it "wasn't that big of a deal." Is this Hanson's fault? Did Tyco perform to the contract? So what's the problem?

We are beginning to think Hanson is the only person who has the needs of Desert Hot Springs on a front burner and perhaps could use the help of some new mature thinking people to stop the absurdities.
